Wnt1 and Wnt5a induce cyclin D1 expression through ErbB1 transactivation in HC11 mammary epithelial cells (EMBO reports, February 2003) (Correction)

Gianluca Civenni, Thomas Holbro & Nancy E. Hynes^{*}

CORRECTION

In the February 2003 issue of EMBO reports (4, 166–171) we published an error in Fig. 4 of the paper above. Due to an error when preparing the figure, the upper panel of (B), labelled D1, also appeared as the upper panel of (A). The corrected panels for (A) and (B) are shown here (right).

Spanish National Cancer Centre

Forthcoming CNIO Cancer Conferences

To serve as a forum for the exchange of ideas in basic and applied cancer research, the CNIO is dedicated to organising annual international conferences:

The CNIO Cancer Conferences (CCC's).

TARGETED SEARCH FOR ANTICANCER DRUGS

Madrid, March 17-19, 2003

ORGANISERS: Amancio Carnero and David Beach

Applications are now closed

SMALL GTPases IN HUMAN CARCIOGENESIS

Madrid, June 16-18, 2003

ORGANISERS: Juan Carlos Lacal, Channing Der, and Shuh Narumiya

Application Deadline: April, 4, 2003

APOPTOSIS AND CANCER

Madrid, December 1-3, 2003

ORGANISERS: Gabriel Nuñez, Scott Lowe, and Marisol Soengas

Application Deadline: September 15, 2003

Participants: Limited to around 25 for each conference, no registration fee required. Please note application deadlines. For details surrounding speakers, sessions, application, abstract submission, please visit:

<http://www.cnio.es/ccs> Information will be regularly updated.

2004 CNIO Symposium Madrid, February 3-6

THE MOLECULAR TAXONOMY OF CANCER

ORGANISERS: Kevin Davies, Todd R. Golub and Miguel A. Piris

The 2004 CNIO Symposium –The Molecular Taxonomy of Cancer– will provide a definitive forum for discussion and debate of seminal advances and outstanding problems in cancer pathogenesis, diagnostics and therapeutics, spanning basic cancer biology to clinical oncology.

Confirmed speakers: M. Barbacid (Spain), J. Baselga (Spain), G. Evan (USA), T. R. Golub (USA), C. Hill (USA), O. P. Kallioniemi (Finland), M.-C. King (USA), G. Hannon (USA), A. Matter (Switzerland), M. A. Piris (Spain), J. Quackenbush (USA), C. Sander (USA), L. Serrano (Spain), Louis Staudt (USA), Michael Stratton (UK), L. Van't Veer (The Netherlands); K. Vousden (UK), B. Weinberg (USA).

First Call for Applicants: 7th April, 2003

Participants: Limited to 500 delegates

For regularly updated information please visit the Symposium web page: www.cnio.es/symposium

For further details surrounding application, sponsorship, technology exhibits, please contact: Amanda Wren, International Scientific Communications

Officer: Email: symposium@cnio.es

Tel: +34 91 2246985, Fax: +34 91 2246981

Further information surrounding our Centre, along with current positions available can be found on our home page: <http://www.cnio.es>. Please address general enquiries related to career opportunities at the CNIO to our Human Resources Department: rrhh@cnio.es