Bad Hair Day

Is this just an occasional bad hair day?
No, it seems they're often that way.
With a twist of this and a spike of that,
Perhaps I should just wear a hat.

But when you have a great Mom and Dad,
Things don't always seem so bad.
They spend time with spit and fingers
To get any hair that straggles or lingers.

Down a bit and put just "there"—
Really, to get it anywhere
So my hair frames my face
Like a porcelain doll full of grace.

But, hey, it could be worse than this—
Because they finish it off with a great big kiss.
