NOTE TO CONTRIBUTORS

After 1 July, 1961, submit manuscripts to:

PROFESSOR W. B. SARLES, Editor
Journal of Bacteriology
Department of Bacteriology
University of Wisconsin
Madison 6, Wisconsin

Beginning with volume 82 (July 1961) the form of the Journal will be changed slightly to conform to the Style Manual for Biological Journals, published by the American Institute of Biological Sciences, 2000 P Street NW, Washington 6, D. C. Authors are asked to prepare manuscripts in conformity with the Manual because the Editor may return manuscripts not prepared accordingly. Several changes from current form are:

- 1) Submit an ABSTRACT rather than a SUMMARY of a manuscript. This is to conform to the practice of many scientific periodicals, and follows a recommendation of the International Council of Scientific Unions Abstracting Board.
- 2) Prepare graphs, line drawings, and other illustrative materials on tracing cloth or paper no larger than 8½ x 11 inches. Use a scale (letters, lines, symbols, and layout) that will permit easy reduction to either one or two columns of the Journal. Employ standard symbols.
- 3) Use the heading LITERATURE CITED for references at the end of the manuscript; use the name and date system for citing, in the text of manuscript.
- 4) Employ the metric system for measures and weights, and the decimal system for fractional units (e.g. 0.1 N, not N/10).
- 5) Use standard abbreviations and symbols; avoid forming new ones.

J. R. PORTER, Editor (1951-1961)