Cancer.Net Guides to Cancer

These booklets on breast, colorectal, lung, and prostate cancer are adapted from Cancer.Net's online Guides to Cancer. Each printed guide contains an overview; anatomic staging illustrations; and information on risk factors, symptoms, diagnosis, treatment, clinical trials, adverse effects, post-treatment considerations, current research, and questions to ask the doctor. Cancer.Net has additional information on more than 120 types of cancer and cancer-related syndromes at www.cancer.net/cancer.

Cancer in Older Adults

Cancer.Net's publication for older adults is adapted from the ASCO curriculum, Cancer Care in the Older Population. This booklet provides information on the physical and emotional changes that are associated with aging and cancer, and includes recommendations for coping with daily life, cancer treatment, and coexisting conditions. Cancer in Older Adults is also available online at www.cancer.net/olderadults.

ASCO Answers Fact Sheets

ASCO's fact sheet series gives patients and their family and friends a basic introduction to 20 types of cancer. Each fact sheet includes an overview of the cancer type, an illustration of where the cancer starts, information on its treatment, terms to know, and questions to ask the doctor. Information about each of the following cancer types is also available online as a PDF at www.cancer.net/ascoanswers: bladder, brain, breast, cervical, colorectal, esophageal, kidney, liver, lung, melanoma, multiple melanoma, non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, oral and oropharyngeal, ovarian, pancreatic, prostate, stomach, testicular, thyroid, and uterine.
