Editorial

Special Section: Global Health Services Research

In December, we published a Theme Issue of Health Services Research devoted to Global Health Services Research. The six articles selected for the Theme Issue were submitted in response to a “Call for Papers.” However, our call yielded a higher number of excellent articles meriting publication than we could fit in the Theme Issue. Therefore, we have decided to publish the additional articles in the February and April 2012 regular issues of the journal. We also wish to advise readers that our long-standing policy regarding international articles, which is described in the Instructions for Authors, has not changed.

José J. Escarce