Late-breaking abstracts are abstracts which describe important current research advances and which have not been submitted previously.

Individuals listed as authors of standard abstracts are not prohibited from submitting late-breaking abstracts. Please note that late-breaking abstracts are not a second chance for those who missed the official abstract deadline. Only state-of-the-art research with up-to-date results are considered as late-breaking abstracts. The selection of abstracts will be based on scientific quality and novelty of research either in basic or clinical science.

Late-breaking abstract submission is open: 31 May – July 12 2013, Midnight (central European time).
