Published in final edited form as:

Neuroscience. 2018 June 15; 381: 161. doi:10.1016/j.neuroscience.2018.04.021.

Corrigendum to 'Morphological Changes in Different Populations of Bladder Afferent Neurons Detected by Herpes Simplex Virus (HSV) Vectors with Cell-type-specific Promoters in Mice with Spinal Cord Injury' [Neuroscience 364 (2017) 190–201]

Nobutaka Shimizu^{a,f}, Mark F. Doyal^b, William F. Goins^b, Katsumi Kadekawa^a, Naoki Wada^a, Anthony J. Kanai^c, William C. de Groat^d, Akihito Hirayama^e, Hirotugu Uemura^f, Joseph C. Glorioso^b, and Naoki Yoshimura^{a,d,*}

^aDepartment of Urology, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA 15213, United States

^bDepartment of Microbiology & Molecular Genetics, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA 15219, United States

^cDepartment of Medicine, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA 15261, United States

^dDepartment of Pharmacology and Chemical Biology, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA 15213, United States

^eDepartment of Urology, Faculty of Medicine, Kindai University Nara Hospital, Nara, Japan

^fDepartment of Urology, Faculty of Medicine, Kindai University, Osaka-Sayama, Japan

The authors regret there was an error in the acknowledgement section. The following text should have been added:

This work was further supported by grants from the NIH (NIH R01 NS064022).

Justification: This award to Drs. Goins, Glorioso and Kinchington supported the engineering, production and purification of the mCherry reporter expressing replication-defective HSV vectors.

The authors would like to apologise for any inconvenience caused.

*Correspondence to, N. Yoshimura: Department of Urology, University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, Suite 700, Kaufmann Medical Bldg., 3471 Fifth Ave, Pittsburgh, PA 15213, United States. Fax: +1-412-692-4380. nyos@pitt.edu (N. Yoshimura).